Dogberry merely requested somebody to writ him down an ass-the Newbern Atlantic has performed that somewhat unnecessary office for itself, and certainly no person who may happen to read an article in that paper of the 22nd under the heading of " Ridiculing General Dockery-Boston Abolitionists," can fail to perceive the full lineaments of the donkey, with all the graceful and distinctive marks and appendages of the animal, ears and tail included.

First, the Atlantic Editor talks about Democratic Editors and others trying to defeat General Dockery because he is "one of the people-"a plain farmer," and so forth; and he furthermore says that "The Whig party are against the formation of an aristocracy in our midst, who will make wealth with all its advantages the only passport to honor and to office. Now see how a little common sense and plain fact will suffice to show the ridiculous character of such stuff. General Dockery, this "plain farmer" and all that, is a man much richer than Mr. Reid, the present Democratic Governor. He is a wealthier man than most if not than all of those who have been spoken off as his Democratic competitors. What then is the use of all this twaddle, unless the cry of "Ridiculing General Dockery" be raised in advance to break the force of the ridicule to which his demagogeism might justly subject him. It has been started as another edition of the larcenous cry of "stop thief."

But the Atlantic-man proceeds in the manner and form hereunto annexed

And not only this-not only are these editors and leaders ridiculing and abusing Gen. Dockery themselves, but they import ridicule from the rabid abolitionists of Boston, that very hot bed of abolitionism. Now, we are not at all surprised that Boston Abolitionists should hate Gen. Dockery, because their memory yet burns with the remembrance of the effective fire he poured into their ranks whilst in Congress, and battling for the cause of the Union. They have

We suppose the Editor must refer to the time when the General took a prominent part in the Congressional caucus which refused to endorse the Compromise-which helped to slay Mr. Fillmore, and thrust General Scott upon the Whig party, and from which so many Southern Whig members of Congress with-

Does it happen to know that the Post has always and at all times stood up even in that hot-bed of Abolitionism for the rights of the South-that it has openly and boldly denounced all coalitions and alliances with Free Soilism in Massachusetts-that it strenously urged the passage and enforcement of the Fugitive Slave Law-that it now lends all the influence of its talents and circulation to the Nebraska Bill. These are facts which no intelligent whig paper will pretend to deny. But in truth, the rhyme about which the Atlantic morning makes such a fuss, are simply innocent pleasantry, to which nothing but an abiding consciousness of being ridiculous could add any sting-which consciousness the Atlantic ought to have, after perpetrating the effusion to which we have been reterring. even if it had not before. DEATH OF MAJOR HOBBIE .- Major Selah R. Hobbie, First Assistant Postmaster General, died in Washington on Thursday last.

The Nebraska Bill.

In the House of Representatives on Tuesday last, on motion of Mr. Cutting (Hard) of New York, the Kanzas-Nebraska Bill was referred to the Committee of the whole by a vote 110 to 95, and a motion to re-

It cannot be doubted that this reference has been made in a spirit unfriendly to the Bill or the Administration, or perhaps to both, and that its effect will be very seriously to delay its passage if not finally to on the 8th inst. jeopardize it. Such is evidently the view taken of it by both the friends and enemies of the Bill, although it is taking too serious a view of the matter to regard it as necessarily a defeat of the Bill, or even as indicating a strong probability of that event.

The bill which came from the Senate is chiefly weakened in its chances for a passage through the House by the two amendments of Messrs. Badger and Clayton. That of Mr. Badger, which, by declaring that the repeal of the Missouri Compromise shall not operate so as to revive any laws of the territory existing prior to 1820, in effect does interfere by Congress with the territory, as it prevents the repeal of the Missouri Compromise having its full effect, which would be to leave things as they were before its enactment, when the proposed new territory was a part of Louisiana in which slavery existed by the local law, has alienated some Southern support. On the other hand, the Clayton amendment, which confines the right of voting in the territory to citizens of the United States, seems to be unpopular with the North. We feel confident, however, that the bill will be reached and acted upon this session, after much fuss and turmoil. Many who voted for its reference to the Committee of the Whole will finally support it. The following is the vote on its reference:
